Parashat Vayera — Questions to Think About

1. Why run?

Abraham was old, and it was the heat of the day — yet he ran to meet strangers. What does it mean to welcome someone with your whole self, not just politely?

2. May we argue?

Abraham pleads with God for a city of strangers, counting down from fifty to ten. Is it right to argue for mercy, even when judgment seems deserved?

3. Laughing and believing

Sarah laughs at news that seems impossible — and then it comes true. Can laughter and faith live in the same heart?

Take one question into your week, or share all three at the table.
